The Westbury is a new floor plan exclusive to the Stonecrest Collection at Dry Creek Ranch, pairing a spacious two-story layout with an RV and split three-car garage. Upon entry, you're met with high ceilings in the great room, dining area, and kitchen at the center of the main level, while multi-slide glass doors at the back open to a covered patio. The chef's kitchen is built for entertaining, with a large island, ample counterspace, and abundant storage in both the walk-in and butler's pantries. A vaulted flex room off the main living area adds extra space to live, while a corner office with wraparound windows offers a great place to work. A guest suite with its own bath and closet sits next to the media room, making it well suited for multigenerational living and guests.

Upstairs, a central loft connects the secondary bedrooms to the primary suite, where a freestanding tub, large tiled shower, dual vanities, and an expansive walk-in closet with direct laundry access make the space feel both luxurious and functional.
